I. Introduction

Character education is not only limited to the students, but also it is ongoing until the end of life the process of development toward human beings. Character education should be an integral part of education over the generations. Character education will continue to be multi-level and multi-channel, because it may not only be implemented by the school but also it will be implemented in authentic life. It can not be built instantaneously. Therefore, character education must be moral movement that is holistic. It is involving various stakeholders and channels. It takes place in a setting of natural life.

In order to have a clear direction to cultivate character, there are various references in developing the values of the characters that have received public recognition from the development by Thomas Lickona, Character Count, Indonesian Hirate Foundation, Ariginanjar Agustian, and Kemendikbud which is described by Sari and Widyanto in 18 (eighteen) the type of character values was developed in Indonesia. It includes: religious, honesty, tolerance, discipline, hard work, creative, independent, democratic, curiosity, the spirit of nationalism, patriotism, recognize excellence, friendship / communicative, love peace, love reading, environmental care, social care, and responsibility. Nevertheless it is possible to be developed in accordance with the realities of the challenges and needs.

National character building is not only the responsibility of the world of schooling but also it is the responsibility of the citizenship sites outside schools (Kardiman, 2008). One of the elements of society that are believed to cultivate the nation’s character is Islamic boarding school. It has proven an effective way in implementing educational value. Both values derived from religion as well as the cultural values of the nation in developing good values or good character. Because Islamic boarding school has the independence of the curriculum, it is more easily to implement various models and strategies of development and learning the values of the right character, that is interesting, creative and innovative. From the study results, Zuhry (2011) factors that support the success of character education in Islamic boarding school has three central things: first ideal model from The leader of the Islamic boarding school (Kiay) second, the intensity of the constant interaction conducted both among students, students with board members and caregivers with all students; lastly, the rules and regulations in the form of regulations to protect the students who used the cottage policies, policies on the basis of elaboration the leader of Islamic boarding school (Kyai) is as well as vision, mission, and goals boarding school. According Bagir (2007) there are four level of implementation of character education in schools, they are the conceptual level, the institutional, operational, and architectural. In addition to the above approach, there are a minimum of four strategies that can be an alternative of character education in schools through: a normative approach, the model approach, the approach reward, punishment and learning atmosphere.

In the implementation, character education curriculum does not have to be made, it should not be implemented in the classroom, but it should still consider various aspects that theoretically can influence its success. According Sumardi (2010), the true character of Education does not have to be made to the formal curriculum. It was hidden curriculum. It is not always taught in the classroom, but the simultaneous and continuous inside and outside the classroom. Due to the success of character education lies not in their formal curriculum, but much influenced by the examples and real-life examples in every aspect of life and learning activities.

Nevertheless, for the implementation of character education is effective and has maximum results then they have to pay attention to the concepts, principles, and strategies. From the study results, Zahira (2011) said: there are eight concepts in the development of character, such as: 1) Learning the character through modeling; 2) Learning the characters through the story; 3) Learning the character through community service; 4) Learning the character through the virtues and principles; 5) Learning characters through integration; 6) Learning through moral character; 7) Learning the character through reflection; and 8) Learning the character through civic duty. In line with Zahira, the concept of effective character education according to Berkowitz, MW & Bier, MC (2005), as follows: "Effective character education is not adding a program or set of programs to a school. Rather it is a transformation of the culture and life of the school. The best way to implement character education is through a holistic approach that integrates character development into every aspect of school life.”

Lickona, et al. (2008) says eight strength of character were needed for Indonesia to develop learning outcome from school: 1) Learning throughout life and critical thinking; 2) Diligent and has to afford something; 3) Has social and emotional intelligence; 4) moral thinker / ethic; 5) As a moral agent, it has a sense of respect and responsible; 6) Personal disciplined and healthy lifestyle; 7) Being a member of the community and the citizens of a democratic state; and 8) involving in compiling institutions spiritual life of noble goal.

The implementation of character education in Salafiyah Biba’a Fadlrah Turen Malang islamic boarding schools conducted with the aim to cultivate the values of noble character models and strategies students with a unique, interesting, creative, innovative, and in accordance to the rules and principles of adult education and learning.

Character education through the development of comprehensive intelligence (intelligence spiritual, emotional, intellectual, and kinesthetic), as an adult character education models were implemented in salafiyah Biba’a Fadlrah Turen Malang islamic boarding schools.

II. Method

The focus of this study is adult education model character in Salafiyah Biba’a Fadlrah Turen Malang. It was considering: first, the nature of the problem to be investigated. It can develop naturally in accordance to the conditions and the situation on the ground; second, the desire of researchers to understand in depth the problems that occurred in the study site in the conditions and situations naturally; third, it can the discovery of truth in pure form without the distortion which is caused by the instrument and research design. So it maintains the integrity of the research subject. The authors chose to use research methods with qualitative approach.

Denzin & Lincoln in Setyosari (2013) states a qualitative approach is the application of the various methods of assessing a focus, with the involvement of interpretive and naturalistic approach in the field of study. Qualitative researchers study was conducted in natural setting, to try to interpret the problem or phenomenon regarding to its meaning. A qualitative approach is a research approach that has natural characteristics. The source of data directly is in descriptive form, where the process is more important than the outcome (Creswell, 2012). The Analysis of the qualitative researchers is more likely to be done inductively and meaning is an essential thing.

In each study, the data are a key part of determining what is being studied. Yin (2011) explains the data are the smallest or cancel entities or recorded elements the resulting from some experience, observation, experiment, or other similar situation. The main data in this study are the events, objects and actions of everyday subject of study in Biba ’ a Fadlrah Malang Islamic boarding school. The type or form of data that is explored in this study is data in the form of: 1) Primary data is data in the form of verbal or words spoken verbally, gestures or behavior by subjects who can be trusted, which is the subject of research or informants regarding the studied variables or data obtained from respondents directly, and 2) secondary data is data which is obtained from data collection techniques that support the primary data. In this study was obtained from the results of observations conducted by the authors as well as of literature. It can be said this secondary data that can be derived from the documents graphics such as tables, notes, text messages, photos, videos, and others (Arikunto, 2010).

While the primary source of data in this study were: 1) People / students as major source of data collection in this study. In accordance to the nature of qualitative research, the sample data source in this study determined snowball sampling, meaning that respondents are relatively few and selected according to the purpose of the study; but the number of respondents may continue to increase according to the research objectives. In this study the snow ball sampling technique is done when the data collection is not enough just from one respondent, it also collected data from other sources competent. Respondents cited in this study are: Board Boarding School, Boarding School Committee, the Board Pupils, Regional Coordinator, and Pupils. 2) The place is Salafi pesantren Biba’a Fdlrah Malang. 3) The process of education and the occurrence of the events that support the research data. 4) documents, the documents required in this study, both personal documents, official documents, images, photographs, and others. According to Bogdan & Biklen (2007) to obtain a holistic integrative data, the data collection techniques that can be used are: 1) in-depth interviews, 2) participant observation, and 3) study the documentation.

The basis of data reduction and display are done both manually and results of data processing by using software (software) as the research outcome. Software which used to facilitate analyzing data from interviews, direct observations were conducted continuously at certain parts, literature and document research on the sections or sub-sections related to the implementation of character education in this study. The alternative software (software) data processing and information employed qualitative methodology. The researchers chose to use QSR NVivo 11.

Data analysis is the systematic process and setting the transcription of interviews, field notes, documents, and other materials that have been collected from field studies to improve understanding of the material findings, and to present the findings to others. The data analysis involves work with the data, arranging, and the breakdown into units that can be handled, search patterns, and the discovery of what is important and what needs to be learned, and decision-making what can be presented to others (Emzir, 2012).

To illustrate overall activity of the data analysis conducted by researchers , it is explained the steps which is taken by referring to Creswell (2007), Rossman & Rellis (1998). (Creswell, 2012) are as follows: (1) conducted in a sustainable manner that requires reflection consequential constantly on the data, asking the questions analytically, and write short notes throughout the study, (2) involves the collection of open data, which is based on common questions and analyzes information from the partisans, (3) to determine the model of analysis used in accordance with the type of strategy chosen in qualitative research, and (4) using common procedures and special measures in the analysis of data, but the ideal way is to mix the general procedure with specific measures.
