

English Language and Career Prospects

Dr. Monika Rastogi

Abstract

English, being the Global Language, is of great significance at the workplace. We, as faculty members prepare batches after batches and finally they go through the Placement Drives.

This is the most crucial time for the students. All their future lies on these few sessions. Some students come out with flying colours, but not all of them. As faculty, it's our duty to prepare each one of them to the maximum possible extent so that they all fare well and get themselves placed. Hardly any attention is paid to honing English Language Skills when it comes to technical education. But, the fact of the matter is that Communication Skills are equally important as technical ones when it comes to Placement Drives. It is hence, very important to realise this and work upon it so that our future batches go to the Placement Drives well equipped with required Communication Skills. The Research Paper lays down certain successfully Classroom Tested Activities which can facilitate English Language Development in the students over a span of a semester.
